About me

I am a passionate Medical Laboratory Technologist and Web Developer with a unique blend of healthcare expertise and modern digital skills. With hands-on experience in clinical diagnostics, laboratory management, and biochemistry analysis, I ensure precision and reliability in every result. Alongside my medical profession, I design and develop dynamic, user-friendly websites using WordPress, combining creativity with functionality. My goal is to bridge science and technology – applying analytical thinking both in the lab and in the digital world to create meaningful, efficient solutions.
